Blame Pneumonia In Quick Baby Death

A distraught mother Monday morning found her 3-month-old son, Scott Bond McCreary, dead in its crib at 38 South Palomar Dr.

The baby at first was believed to have smothered to death, but the coroner's office reported Monday afternoon that the tot had died of pneumonia.

The baby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce D. McCreary, had been well and was put in his crib Sunday night. A member of the family looked at the tot at 1 a.m. Monday before retiring and the youngster appeared all right. The baby's death was discovered at 8 a.m.

A call was sent to Sacramento to notify the father of the baby's death.

The family had lived here for six weeks at the home of Mrs. McCreary's sister, Mrs. E. M. Brickey.

Officials Probe Weekend Shooting

Authorities Monday were investigating the shooting of a Rockaway Beach man to determine how a bullet got into his chest and whether the shooting took place in San Mateo County or in San Francisco.

John E. Connolly, 56, first told San Francisco authorities that he was struck by a stray bullet. He later changed his story to the effect that he had become despondent over ill health and that Friday he shot himself at his Rockaway Beach home.

Chief Dep. Sheriff Walter Moore said he investigated Connolly's home and could find no bloodstains or other indications of a shooting at the home.

David Thomas, with whom Connolly lives, said the two went on a tour of bars Saturday night. It was not until Saturday night that Connolly reported that he had bullet near his heart. He was taken to Park Emergency Hospital, where his condition was reported not serious.

The bullet had pierced his chest and was deflected by a rib.

Moore said that he would await the removal of the bullet from Connolly's chest to see if the bullet was from a .22-caliber rifle before making further investigation. A .22-caliber rifle was found at Connolly's home.

Landlords Support Rent Boost Plans

Possibility of a rent increase yesterday drew half a hundred county landlords to a public hearing in San Mateo on the recent resolution of the San Mateo County Rent Advisory Board for a rent increase in the same amount as taxes have increased since 1942.

With practically a lone exception, the landlords used the meeting as a springboard from which to vent their ire against everyone from the federal government on down through the San Francisco Area rent director and the local board.

No tenants were present at the meeting.

The resolution, passed by the board last week and sent to the federal rent authorities, would allow landlords to increase annual rents, prorated among tenants, in the same amount that their taxes have increased since 1942.

Barely grateful for the attempt of the local board to secure some relief, the main tenor of the speeches addressed to the board was how much the landlords have suffered and how much they want all controls taken off rents.

All persons present but two raised their hands when asked if they favored the resolution.

Forum Letter

To the Editor:

This is a suggestion offered as a partial solution to ease the congested traffic on the Bayshore as well as the heavy traffic load on trains and buses.

It seemed there must be some other avenue of breaching the city. It will be some time before the work is completed on the Bayshore.

Wouldn't it be feasible, sensible and practical to have fast water taxi service between the Port of Redwood City and San Francisco? A fast boat should make it in 30 minutes, Redwood City would make full use of its port, and the traffic load could be spread out. There's a lot of room to travel on the bay.

Sincerely yours,

DOCTOR WANTED!

Ever want a doctor in a hurry?

More to the point, ever get a doctor in a hurry?

Today we consider our family MDs. Stout fellows, these, pillars of our perilous parenthood.

Our need for them goes like this:

You are lounging in your favorite chair, with your shoes off and your suspenders dangling. You hear the sounds of the children peacefully at play. In happy amazement you note that they haven't had a quarrel for a long, long time.

Outside the birds are singing and a soft breeze is blowing. All is right with the world.

Then you hear the crash of breaking glass, followed by the anguished howls of the injured one. Your diaphragm dissovles and you dive through the door in time to see the blood start flowing.

A doctor, quick! Ahoy, Doc!

As would be expected, the child is cut in a spot where a tourniquet is impossible. So you stretch him out on the draining board, letting a thin red stream drip into the sink, while you run for the telephone.

Of course, the family doctor isn't at his office. Of course, the nurse is medically mysterious concerning his whereabouts. Of course, she is uncertain about his return.

Oh, oh, doctor!

Tremblingly you leaf through the phone book to call another one. You pick a chap you eat with frequently at the club. He will take you in, you know.

You dial and get a quick answer: "Allo, vat do you vant?" After some moments of mutual confusion you discover that you are connected with a new Dutch delicatessen instead of the doctor.

When you do get his office you find your old club pal is gone. He was just called to the Central Plains of India, or some other improbable place, to take care of Mrs. Glutz. The rich Mrs. Glutz.

You try three others, but find they are delivering three different babies. Or is that just a convenient answer for nurses to use? I don't know.

A final effort bears fruit. You call your family doctor's wife. That long-suffering lady says she'll find him and will guarantee he'll meet you at his office.

When you do get the injured one and the doctor together, the bleeding has stopped. The youngster's fear is gone. The crisis is long since over. It is past dinnertime, and everyone is hungry.

Your doctor is amazingly patient. He gave up his dinner, too, but doesn't say a word about it. He doesn't even comment about overly anxious parents.

So here's to the family doctors! They are on hand with vital help at each of life's great crises. On hand, if you schedule your crisis 13 months in advance, then lasso, hogtie, handcuff, leg shackle and bolt the poor medico to the floor!

What would we do without them?

GARDEN: Don't Send Plant Material Through Mail

BY ROLLY LANGLEY

Anthony Standen tells the story of how a French astronomer, Leopold Troubelot, was trying to improve the breed of silk worms back in 1868, in the town of Medford, Mass. He was endeavoring to interbreed certain European moths with the silk worms, and so he had eggs of the moth shipped to him from the old country.

Monsieur Troubelot raised the moths from Europe on shrubs in his garden, being most careful to keep them caged under cloth.

Nothing came of the breeding experiment. The silkworms weren't improved upon until Nylon came along many years afterwards.

But you know how Massachusetts weather is. One night there was a storm and Monsieur Troubelot's cloth cages blew away. The next day he gave public notice, but in 1868 no one was interested in the escape of some foreign moths from a foreigner's garden.

Ten years passed and nothing much happened. The escaped insects were pretty much forgotten. Now we know that during that time they acclimatized themselves, but slowly.

Then in the 1880s, people around Medford began to comment that there seemed to be an awful lot of caterpillars on the trees. In the years immediately following, the caterpillars increased at an amazing rate, and by 1889 the trees were being completely defoliated.

The next year alarmed citizens petitioned the state for helf and a $50,000 appropriation was granted to fight the moth, which was still confined to the small area around Medford and a few neighboring communities.

Entomologists went to work on the foreign moth and brought it pretty much under control. In many places, Standen tells us, the pest was completely eradicated.

In 1900 the state legislature reviewed the situation, and the lawmakers decided that the entomologists were a group of scareheads, that the moth had been licked, because, they said, "look — no damage can be found."

So they stopped the appropriations and the work was discontinued, even though their bugologists said that if they had just a few more years, they could completely kill the moth, stamp it out of this country for all time.

Nothing much happened in 1900 or 1901, but by 1903, the damage was severe again. By 1904, the report read this way: "The work of fire could not have been more thorough or alarming. The hungry caterpillars swarmed everywhere. They dropped on persons, carriages, cars and automobiles, and were thus widely scattered. They invaded houses, swarmed into living rooms and sleeping rooms, and even made homes uninhabitable. Real estate in the worst infested districts underwent a notable depreciation in value. Worst of all, pines and other conifers, scarce in Masachusetts anyway, were killed outright.

Well, appropriations were made again in 1905, and have continued every year since. Not only in Massachusetts, but New Hampshire, Maine and Rhode Island were also forced to chip in. Later the federal government had to assist, because the moth is slowly invading the entire country.

Now there seems little hope of ever exterminating the devastating moth which 50 years ago might easily have been stamped out, once and for all.

Millions of dollars have been spent, and will in future be spent, but we'll never be rid of the pest.

That pest is the gypsy moth, and so far as I know, it hasn't reached the West Coast to this time. But — others have been quicker.

Pleads 'Not Guilty' In Mate Shooting

Mrs. Margaret Frances Martinelli, plump 42-year-old Colma housewife, Monday pleaded not guilty to the murder of her husband, Edward, 46, a housepainter.

She entered her plea before Superior Judge Aylett R. Cotton on two counts: No. 1 not guilty, and No. 2, not guilty by reason of insanity.

Judge Cotton granted her attorney, Alfred J. Hennessy of San Francisco, one week's delay in the case for the appointment of doctors who will examine Mrs. Martinelli to determine whether she is sane.

Martinelli was shot to death in his bed in the pre-dawn hours of Oct .22 after a night long argument. Officers said that the shooting occurred after Martinelli refused to argue further with his wife and fell asleep.

She is accused of having climbed out of bed, gotten a .22 caliber rifle and fired a bullet at close range into her husband's temple, killing him instantly. The fatal shot was fired, officers declared after the gun accidently went off once but failed to rouse Martinelli.

Investigators reported that Mrs. Martinelli accused her husband of infidelity, but no evidence to support her claim was uncovered.

Trial date will be set after she is examined by physicians, if the case is to continue to trial.

Cowgill Urges Splitting Up Of Probation Departments

By MARY CRAWFORD

Juvenile and adult probation departments in this county must be separated, John S. Cowgill, probation officer in charge of both said, Monday.

One is the stepchild of the other, and they just don't get along together, he added.

Under the present setup in San Mateo County, adult probationers and juvenile delinquents report to the same officer, sit side by side in the waiting room. The situation is an incongruous as holding an adult education class in a room where kindergarten is in session.

Cowgill has asked the board of supervisors to approve a separate setup for each department, and will keep on until he gets both.

In the past Cowgill's chief problem was getting a new juvenile home, moving out of the old fire trap here.

But now building is under way for the new home on the relief home site west of Belmont. This site was picked as a last resort, chosen only after the supervisors vied for nine other sites, but backed down in the face of protests from residents in each proposed area.

It won't be practical to make adult probationers trek to the new home. They should report to a separate office in the court house, Cowgill said.

About 87 adults are on probation now, Cowgill said.

Last year adults were probationed at the rate of five a month, but the average has tripled this year, because justices of peace are giving more men probation, jailing fewer, Cowgill said, adding that this trend is good.

Cowgill, a trained worker, believes that chances for making a good citizen out of a criminal are better if the man is granted probation, and is guided by a probation officer, instead of going to jail and then being released without supervision.

Cowgill said:

"The job (of supervising probationers) isn't being done for adults as it should be. Last year we asked for a separate probation officer under the same head. In fact we asked for three new people, but got two, and the third was to be for adult.

"If we had a full time man on the job, more complete investigations could be made, and in all probability, more adults could get probation, fewer people would be in jail, and the cost to the county would be decreased."

Some states have estimated that it is ten times, others 18 times cheaper to release a man on probation than to keep him in jail.

Cowgill said that about 90 per cent of the people here who ask for probation get it.

He said, "the idea is to show a man you believe he can make good, and not to threaten him (by telling him that a jail sentence hangs over his head if he doesn't.")

If a man proves that he is making a good adjustment while he's on probation, the judge, on the probation officer's recommendation, usually terminates probation, Cowgill said.

Cowgill said that this county received very few reports of violations of probation, only about four or five in the past year.

Horse's Kick Fractures Man's Skull

Jack H. Estes, 27-year-old Palo Alto Hospital Monday suffering from a skull fracture sustained Sunday when he was kicked by a horse.

The horse which kicked Estes is a 3-year-old palomino, Pirate, which was ridden in the July 4 Redwood City parade by the queen.

The sheriff's office reported that Estes, who lives at 525 Cleveland St., with his wife Mabel and their children, Jacqueline, Ken and David, went Sunday to Ole Oleson's barn in Palomar Park with a cousin of Mrs. Estes, Louis Fernandez, who takes care of Oleson's horses.

The children and Estes were in the corral petting the palomino while the others were at the farther end of the barn. After a few minutes, Jacqueline ran to her mother, crying that her father had been kicked in the head by the horse.

Mrs. Estes and Fernandez found Estes unconscious on the ground. He was taken to Palo Alto Hospital where doctors determined he had suffered a skull fracture.

He recovered consciousness early Monday morning and hospital attendants said his condition was good.

Estes is an army veteran and worked before the war in the San Mateo County Controller's Office. For the past two years he has been employed in the appraiser's office.

SM County Real Estate Men Attend Convention in SF

San Mateo County real estate men were in San Francisco this week attending the 40th convention of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards.

Two days of pre-convention institutes were held yesterday and today. Three days of general sessions will start tomorrow at the Civic Auditorium.

The agenda includes such issues as housing, federal taxation, rent control and price control.

Morgan L. Fitch of Chicago, president of the association, urged a campaign to free home building from both labor restrictions and industry cartels.

Fitch declared it is obvious that the average, moderate income family cannot afford a house that costs $12,000, $13,000 or $14,000.

Among points the association hopes to have voted on record this week include:

1. A private enterprise program to build 5,000,000 homes in the next five years.
2. Limitation of the federal government's income taxing power to 25 per cent.
3. Abolition of rent controls on Feb. 29, 1948.

President Fitch is presiding at the convention, which stresses the theme, "Success in Tomorrow's Composition."

Meantime, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce this week issued a 13-page housing survey which showed that the housing needs in the nine Bay Area counties will be at least 54,230 by next year. Only about 21,500 will be started this year.

The chamber estimates that a total of $2,600,000,000 will give the Bay Area the homes it will require by 1952.

Woman Injured In RC Collision

June Andrew, 17, 493 Franklin St., Mountain View, suffered lacerations on her forehead and the back of her head Sunday in a Redwood City automobile accident.

She was a passenger in a car driven by James Pickard, 27, 1131 Hollybourne Ave., Menlo Park. Police Sgt. Edwin (Pat) Fogarty said Pickard was driving north on El Camino Real at 9:46 p.m when he attempted a turn at Center St. A car driven by Lee A. Woods, 24, 2244 El Camino Real, was traveling in the same direction and struck the turning vehicle.

800 Witness Sequoia 'Night'

Approximately 800 parents last night "went to school" at Sequoia High School, taking part in Parent's Night arranged by the faculty in celebration of National Education Week.

The parents went to the same classes their children go to daily and during 20 minute periods, heard teachers explain their courses.

According to Supt. A. C. Argo, the purpose of Parent's Night was to get parents and teachers better acquainted.

Dog Saves RC Woman From Blaze

A little dog and an alert neighbor were credited Monday with saving a Redwood City woman from possible death by fire.

The fire started Sunday in the kitchen of Mrs. Anna Pearce, 572 Canyon Rd., from a short circuit in an electrice hot plate.

Mrs. Pearce had made coffee shortly before going to bed with a bad cold. As a result of the cold, she could not smell the smoke.

The barking of Midget, a little Belgian dog, roused Mrs. Pearce. At the same time, she heard rocks which were being thrown against her window by H. E. Stage, a Pan-American Air Lines buyer who lives near Mrs. Pearce.

Stage forced the back door and extinguished the fire before the arrival of trucks of the county fire warden's station.

The fire had ignited the kitchen table and had spread to the window shades. The damage was estimated at $150.

Mrs. Pearce was staying in the house alone in the absence of her daughter, Mercedes, who was away visiting friends.

Boy Scout News

One hundred seventy-five leaders are expected to attend the Boy Scout Council's annual appreciation dinner for unit leaders in the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, San Mateo, at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday.

This dinner is given in an effort to express the deep gratitude and appreciation which the council feels towards all those adult, commissioned unit leaders who work directly with the boys, and to honor their wives, whose cooperation is so essential and so valuable.

Council Pres. Philip N. Lilienthal Jr. said, "This dinner gives the Boy Scout Council of San Mateo County Area an opportunity to salute its faithful workers who work directly with the boys of our community as leaders in Cubbing, Scouting or Senior Scouting. Many of them have given years to this work and their services are immeasurable."

Rabbi Irving F. Reichert of Temple Emanu-el in San Francisco, will be the honored guest speaker at the appreciation dinner. Rabbi Reichert will speak on "The Value of Scouting in the Community."

Scout, Cub and Senior Scout units throughout the county are still working in an effort to reach the enrollment objectives set by each separate unit last January. Each is anxious to earn the coveted President's Ribbon which will be presented to all those reaching their objective by Pres. Philip N. Lilienthal Jr. at the Courts of Honor in December.

Scout Executive Edward A. Barrer said yesterday, "Many units are reporting that they have already reached the challenging objectives set for the 1947 membership campaign. Scoutmaster Bill Huber of Troop 85 in Millbrae called me to report that he had 10 new boys in his troop, and we will undoubtedly hear from many other leaders whose efforts to increase their membership have been equally successful." ★ ★ ★

The Boy Scouts of America is working as one of the sponsoring groups of the San Mateo County Recreation Institute, which will be held Dec. 1, 2, 4 and 8, 9, 11, (Monday, Tuesday and Thursday of the first two weeks in December) at the San Mateo Junior College. Sessions are from 7:45 to 10:30 p.m.

This institute is planned for leaders in all types of youth work, and all Den Mothers, Scoutmasters and Cubmasters or anyone at all who is working directly with boys, is urged to attend these interesting evening sessisons.

Speakers, community singing, demonstrations of crafts and skills, party planning, folk and square dancing, story-telling and skits and stunts are only a few of the activities in which those attending will be instructed.

19 Injured in County Automobile Accidents

Heavy traffic jammed San Mateo County roads during the weekend, resulting in collisions involving about two score cars in accidents which sent 19 persons to hospitals.

The worst accidents were Sunday, one on Bayshore Hwy. near San Carlos, resulting in injury to five persons, and the other on Skyline Blvd. in which five also were injured.

Meanwhile, minor collisions resulted from the traffic jam near the Cow Palace when thousands of cars took spectators from the matinee performance while the evening traffic was pouring in.

William K. Barth, 22; Raymond Ryan, 22; Mrs. Connie Modica, 53; John Mathews, 32, and Mrs. Filomena Listo, all of San Francisco, suffered various cuts and bruises in a five-car rearend pileup south of Holly Rd. All were treated at Community Hospital.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Dimitri Moskvin, 21, of San Francisco, ploughed into the rear of a stopped coupe, which in turn caused three other rearend collisions.

The coupe was driven by Ignacio Modica, 24, of San Francisco. Its gasoline tank was punctured, spilling gasoline over the highway. The San Carlos Fire Dept. was called to stand by in case a fire started and washed off the gasoline from the road with high-pressure hoses.

The accident occurred about 6 o'clock Sunday night and traffic was halted all the way back to Redwood City. A few minutes later another three-car rearend pileup occurred about a mile south of the other accident, but no one was injured.

About the same time, cars driven by Howard T. Sherwood, 38, of Pedro Valley, and Edwin W. Weaver, 18, of 310 Winslow St., were involved in a headon sideswipe collision on Skyline Blvd. about a mile north of Crystal Springs Rd., San Bruno.

Sherwood, Weaver and three others suffered minor injuries which were treated at Mills Memorial Hospital. The others injured were Robert DeVito, 15, and Jean DeVito, 14, of 504 Alden St., and Robert Weaver, 16, of 812 Paloma Ave., Burlingame.

Eddie Evens, 34, of San Francisco, was in South San Francisco Hospital Monday with leg and back injuries sustained in a four-car collision on Bayshore Hwy. a half mile south of Geneva Ave. near the San Francisco County line at 6:30 Sunday night.

Evens was a passenger in a car driven by Thomas Granshaw, 29, San Francisco, who was southbound when a three-car pileup in a northbound lane threw one of the cars into the path of his sedan.

Andrea J. Livingston, 7, San Francisco, was treated for a torn upper lip sustained when the car in which she was riding struck the rear of a car driven by Robert E. Lehmer, 32, of Sunnyvale. The girl was riding in a car driven by Louis T. Livingston, 45. The accident was at 7:45 Sunday night.

Early Sunday morning Helen L. Paltier, 27, of Interburn, Wash., and James Swicher, 33, San Mateo, were injured when the car in which they were riding ran into a bank on a curve of Skyline Blvd. near the Half Moon Bay Rd.

Three accidents were reported to the CHP Saturday night. Raymond F. Botsford, 30, San Francisco, sustained facial injuries when he lost control of his car and it overturned on Bayshore Hwy. a half mile north of Peninsular Ave., Burlingame. He was treated at Mills Hospital.

Madeline F. Williams, 19, San Francisco, and Peggy Gepson, 15, of Montara, suffered minor lacerations in a collision between Miss Williams' car and a car driven by Mildred J. Gepson, 18. The accident occurred on Coast Hwy. in Granada.

O. W. Vest, 29, of 259 Roble Ave., and Mrs. Helen C. Vest, sustained minor injuries when the car driven by Vest was struck from the rear by a sedan operated by William H. Baker, Lockport, La. The accident was on Bayshore Hwy. at Boneyard Hill near Brisbane.

NMB Celebrates Fifth Year Here

More than 185 employes and guests of the National Motor Bearing Co. last night attended a dinner at Chartiers in San Mateo, in celebration of the fifth anniversary of the company's moving to Redwood City.

The party also served as the second annual service pin dinner, 95 employes receiving pins for service ranging from five to 20 years. To persons were given pins for 20 years' continuous service; six persons for 10 years' service, and 87 for five years' service.

In the only speech of the evening, Lloyd A. Johnson, National Motor Bearing president, praised Redwood City civic leaders for their efforts in bringing the factory to Redwood City. He pointed out that the company's payroll this year would exceed $1,600,000.

SC Forum Group Hears Talk On Redistricting of Schools

"State school legislation and its local effects," was the topic discussed this week by the San Carlos Forum Committee at the Central School. Emmett Mahoney, school principal and coordinator of the group, was the speaker, and he led the open discussion.

A public forum on the same subject will be held on Nov. 18 at the Central School, with George Davis, chairman of the San Mateo County Redistricting Survey Committee, as principal speaker.

"The whole problem of redistricting," according to Mrs. R. L. Harlan, publicity chairman for the forum, "is to even the flow of tax money into the districts where there are so many children and it is needed for schools."

Three years ago, she explained, Gov. Earl Warren saw the prospect of the growth of population in this area and called in an authority from the East to survey the whole situation of the state of California and to make recommendations.

These recommendations were to be used as the basis for state school legislation. Outgrowth of the recommendations was this redistricting survey which is being done by local business people and interested service groups in various communities.

The forum committee discussed future topics for public discussion and announced the following: "Community Safety," for Dec. 2; "What about Communism? When is it most dangerous?" for Dec. 16. The Jan. 20 Forum will be on "Community Planning."

YMCA to Take Youths to Game

Kenneth Osman, executive secretary of the Sequoia Dist. YMCA, said today that all members of the YMCA under 14 years of age will be taken to the Stanford-Oregon football game Saturday free of charge, except for bust fare. Boys who are not members of the 'Y' can make arrangements to go by contacting the 'Y' headquarters.

Boys planning to go should inform the 'Y' office by 6 p.m. Friday and be at the 'Y' building, Brewster Ave. and Clinton St., by 1 p.m. Saturday, Osman said.

Local Girl Scouts to Aid In Sending Clothing Overseas

Girl Scouts of Sequoia District will join with more than a million other Girl Scouts in the United States to send at least 100,000 kits of warm clothing overseas in 1947, according to Mrs. D. G. Berglund, commissioner, who has just returned from the National Girl Scout Convention in Long Beach, Calif.

The new project, called Clothes for Friendship, was announced to the 2500 representatives at the convention by Mrs. C. Vaughn Ferguson, Girl Scout national president. Mrs. Berglund said and was immediately indorsed by General Mark Clark, guest of honor at the session at which the announcement was made. Other indorsements have come from Mrs. Harry S. Truman, Girl Scout honorary president and the honorable Herbert Hoover, who recently surveyed conditions in Europe for President Truman.

Mrs. Berglund also reported that as a result of convention action the Girl Scouts now have a new name. The national organizations, previously known merely as "Girl Scouts" will now be called Girl Scouts of the United States of America. Increased international activities of the organization made it advisable to add the clarifying phrase since there are also Girl Scouts in many Latin American countries.

Mrs. Berglund said that Girl Scouts may now earn 30 additional proficiency badges including eight in a new field of action, agriculture. Scouts may henceforth earn recognition for such rural or backyard skills as beekeeping, rabbit raising, and truck gardening.

The convention delegates also passed a resolution in support of President Truman's food conservation program, Mrs. Berglund stated.

Those attending the convention from Sequoia District were Mrs. D. G. Berglund, Mrs. Ray Weymouth, Mrs. J. R. Hedge, Mrs. Odette Lise, Mrs. Jack Kramer, Mrs. George Metlar, Mrs. J. Roy Moore, Miss Lois Little, and Miss Martha Keefe.

2 Jailed in County On Drunk Charges

Two persons were arrested during the weekend by California Highway Patrol officers on charges of drunken driving in the Redwood City area.

Laurence E. Tech, 36, of Salem, Ore., was arrested while driving a delivery truck on Bayshore Hwy. Frank Engel, 31, of 1614 Union St., was arrested on Woodside Rd. near Union St.

Both were released from county jail on $100 bail each. Tech is to appear before Justice of the Peace Edward I. McAuliffe on Nov. 14 and Engle on Nov. 21.

Eight Initiated Into Fire Group

Eight San Carlos residents last night were initiated into the San Carlos Volunteer Fire Dept., Fire Chief Lyle Clark announced today.

The new members bring the total membership in the organization up to 25, Clark said. The volunteer group acts as an auxiliary to the five regular paid men in the San Carlos Fire Dept.

Among those initiated were Norman Day, Ben White, George Harper, J. G. McLaughlin, Lloyd Rinck, Archie Cooper, Frank S. Quinn and Robert Klose.

News of Commuters

By JOE CABOOSE
("Always Last on the Train")

We have just concluded a 30-day swing around the country—Chicago, New York, Washington, Gadsden (Ala.), New Orleans and Los Angeles—and it is our considered judgment that it is still the greatest nation on earth, despite the fact that nowhere were we able to get a 5c cup of coffee.

★ ★ ★

Yes, the greatest nation on earth! But too many of our people are jumpy, neurotic, frustrated. They are worrying about the failure of the UN, the threat of a new war, rising prices, runaway inflation, another depression. Drug manufacturers are running their plants day and night to keep up with the demand for aspirin and phenobarbital.

★ ★ ★

The whole nation has the jumping jitters and it's just one humble guy's opinion that the up-coming special session of Congress should go all out to stabilize prices and other phases of our economy, not for economy's sake, but to quiet our national nerves and keep a majority of us at least out of the laughing academies.

★ ★ ★

At a recent meeting of the Commuters Underpass Committee, Chmn. Elmer Ross appointed four sub-committees to check ways and means with regard to cooperation from federal, state and city governments and from the principal railroad involved and the Public Utility Commission. Attending the meeting at Ross' home, and enjoying the famous Ross brand of hospitality, were Pres. Paul Allen, Chester Armstrong, Col. Harry Day, Anthony Doolin, Bert Morgan (Chairman R. C. Planning Commission), Walter O'Farrell, "Kim" Kimberley, Stanley Perkins, George Raubinger, Richard tum Suden, Bill McKeegan and Gene Hoffman.

★ ★ ★

The Commuters discussed the relative importance of the various underpasses proposed in the city's "20-year-plan," but withheld any decision on "priority" until they have an opportunity to study larger maps and traffic figures which Planning Commission Chairman Morgan promised to bring to the next meeting, scheduled for Nov. 25 at Hoffman's home. The encouraging thing is, this committee is now down to serious work, and, to quote Chairman Ross, "we hope for and expect the fullest cooperation from all civic, patriotic and public spirited groups who recognize the grade crossing as the number one menace to life, property and progress in this rapidly growning community."

★ ★ ★

M. L. Brockway hosted the directors' meeting at his home last Tuesday evening. It was election night and after a brief business session the radio became the high point of interest. Commuters don't vote in the city (more than once around), but their interest is keen because of the snarled traffic situation. Mayor-elect Robinson is hailed with high hopes. But so was Roger Lapham. Remember? Truth is, San Francisco's transit problem is like our underpass problem. Neither can be solved without going underground or overhead. And that takes a lot of somebody's money.

★ ★ ★

Chmn. Bill Silverthorne, membership committee, was assigned the task of compiling a new club roster. Directors complained the club is so big now they "don't know half the members." . . . Dir. Roy Fredlund said "It's a little early, but I'm looking for Santa Claus." Roy is chairman, club's Boy Scout committee and warns Central School meeting place will soon be no more. He wants a Santa Claus to help him find a housing place for his Troop 160.

★ ★ ★

Walt Stevenson, maestro of Commuters' Cub Park 16, in his report paid high tribute to Sidney G. Alexander who has been showing up at Pack meetings with a lot of interesting 16mm. colored sound movies. "The kind that delights the hearts of small boys," said Steve, "although it has been noted that more parents are attending since the movies started."

LADY— YOU DID IT!

This is the season of the year when those annoying fuse "blow-out" may occur in the home. There are several reasons for these "pesky" mishaps and there are a few precautions you can take to avoid them.

Take these simple precautions and you will avoid trouble this fall and winter:

1. Handle plugs and cords carefully. Tighten up loose screws and nuts in plugs and on appliances.
2. Repair or replace old and frayed cords on all appliances. Check your cords now.
3. Keep spare fuses on hand. It takes only a few seconds to replace a burned-out fuse.

You will be home more hours a day during the coming cold and rainy season thus giving your lamps, radios and appliances longer hours of service. Give them all some care and repair servicing now.

TAKE CARE of plugs that start spittin' like a kitten. It is advance notice that a wire is about to burn through or a plug terminal is about to giveway.

BEWARE of jerking appliances about by the cord. This loosens terminal connections and causes short circuits and blowouts.

BEWARE of using too many appliances at one time on a branch circuit. This overloads circuits and causes blowouts.

TAKE CARE to have a supply of fuses of the right size on hand. 15 ampere fuses (not 20 or 30 amperes) are right for lighting circuits.

Buy a supply of fuses from your dealer today
